Society Observatory in supporting women's rights organizations and following up and monitoring the implementation of the UfM Ministerial process.

In the course of two panels, the participants exchanged analyses, experience, and good practices on advancing women's rights in the context of the Covid-19 crisis. They affirmed that addressing VAWG and advancing the Women, Peace and Security Agenda is a must in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic and its devastating consequences on women, and in the light of the drastic increase in rates of violence against women and girls. They stressed the importance of mainstreaming and integrating a gender perspective in Covid-19 preparedness, response, and recovery measures, in particular in the field of health, economic participation, education and learning, media, and women's participation in decision-making processes.

Moreover, they asserted that the governments' response to Covid-19 should be in accordance with their obligations with regards to human rights standards and international women's rights instruments, in keeping with their commitments stated in the 4th UfM Ministerial Declaration on Strengthening the Role of Women in Society (November 2017 Cairo).

In their closing remarks, Ms. Borianna Jonsson, Executive Director of EFI and Ms. Leila Al Ali, Co-President of EFI emphasized the importance of this rich, invaluable and high-level discussion, and confirmed that the recommendations adopted in the Regional Policy Dialogue will be presented to the UfM and will be instrumental in the follow up work on the implementation of the Cairo Ministerial Declaration.
